From the Frontiers of Turkey, February 21.
LETTERS from Constantinople import nothing less than the speedy return of peace. They talk of nothing but preparations for the ensuing campaign, which the Porte is resolved to open sooner than ordinary. A great quantity of cannon has been cast in the arsenal, and the people are employed in equipping a good number of half-galleys, destined for the Black Sea, where the Russians, on their part, threaten to make a diversion.
Hamburgh, March 27. Letters from Petersburg mention, that the Castle of Moscow was lately burnt entirely down.
The damage is computed at 400,000 roubles.

L O N D O N .
April 21. We hear that the petition of the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of London, presented on Wednesday last to a Great Assembly by Mr. Sheriff Bull, sets forth the high price of wheat and flour, and represents to the assembly, that if the importation of wheat, wheat flour, and Indian corn, were allowed duty free, it would be a means of preventing a further rise in the price of bread.

Thursday at three o'clock the Committee that was appointed to search into the journals, upon the indignity that was offered to the House of Commons the 1st day of April, in sending the Clerk assistant, with one of the Masters in Chancery, with a Bill from the Lords, made their report to the house, which was read by the Clerk at the table, when the Committee could find no precedent of the assistant Clerk ever attending before, and likewise was read the behaviour that the Speaker and four other Members received when they were attending their duty in the House of Lords in being rudely turned out by the door-keepers. Lord Falkstone then got up and mentioned to the House what the Committee had done, and therefore begged leave to make a motion that he had in his hand, which was, that the bill which was brought up by the Messengers from the House of Lords on the first day of April, not being the usual Messengers, be sent back to the Lords, which was objected to by the Ministry as being unprecedented, and tending to create disturbance between the two houses; when the question being put, the house divided 37 for the motion, 307 against it.

Another motion was then moved for by the Ministry, to send an humble message to the Lords, acquainting them that their last message was unusual, which was objected to by the minority; but upon a division there appeared 103 for, 53 against. The minority then moved for a conference to be held between the Houses, which was objected to by the Ministry, upon a division of 51 for the conference, 217 against it.—Thus ended the long debate.

Earl Cornwallis is to set out in a few days for Copenhagen on some affair of consequence.
Express orders were sent to Plymouth on Thursday last, for two third rate men of war to sail with all speed for the Mediterranean.

We are informed that no account has been received at St.
James's of the affront said (in some of the papers) to have been offered by the Chevalier Stuart to the Duke of Gloucester, nor any letters from his Royal Highness against this Royal Marriage Act.

The Act lately signed by his Majesty's said to be an Act to take off one shilling per pound on all black and single Tens, is a mistake, it should have been said, an Act to expiate and amend an Act for taking off one shilling per pound on all black and single Tens, which act expired on the 5th of July next, at which time the shilling per pound will be again laid on.

The Hon. Charles Fox never showed himself to such advantage as on Thursday last, on his motion for the repeal of the Marriage Act. He brought his reasons to home to the bosom of his auditor, and so clearly evinced the barbarity of the present Act, that no less than twenty-three avowedly intended opposers of this motion, absolutely voted in support of it.

An evening paper of last night says, a Gentleman of consequence has favoured us with the conclusion of the last conference between Prince Masserano, the Spanish Ambassador, and our Secretary of State. The Ambassador after charging the British Court, in a haughty and imperious tone, with infraction of the treaties by some late orders sent to the British Government in the West-Indies, and by the design now going to be executed of prosecuting discoveries in the South Seas, concluded with saying, "That he believed his Master would not blame him, if he was to leave the British Court on this occasion without taking his leave." "Then (said the Minister, turning on his heel as he was opening the door) I wish your Excellency a good journey, in case I should not see you again."

Letters from Rome, dated March 11, advise, that more than one personal affront has been given there by the Chevalier Stuart (vulgarily called the Pretender) to his Royal Highness the Duke of Gloucester; and notwithstanding that the Pope has sent his positive orders to the Chevalier not to give any more affronts to his Royal Highness, yet the Chevalier (understanding that the Duke of Gloucester was to pay a visit on the 3d of March to Cardinal Albani) chose that opportunity publicly to meet the Duke of Gloucester's equipage in a narrow street, and insisted upon the Duke and his whole retinue to give way, and which accordingly was done by the Duke of Gloucester, to the no small triumph of the Chevalier Stuart. This quarrel is not yet compromised, and probably may be attended with more alarming circumstances. His Holiness the Pope, however, had on this subject a tete-a-tete with his Royal Highness the Duke of Gloucester in the garden this day (March 11). No living creature was present at this long conference between these two illustrious worthies, but it is now publicly known to have been very agreeable to both parties.

The Duke of Cumberland is now grown to great a favourite with the people, and treats them with so polite an attention, that his Royal Highness never appears abroad without receiving the loudest huzzas, and hearing himself very heartily blessed by the disinterested multitude.

April 2. Accounts from Copenhagen by this day's mail confirm, that the Chamberlain Cay Rasch is nominated Envoy from the King of Denmark to the Court of London, where he hath already resided in that quality; and that the Baron Diederich Fursstenstein will go from London to Petersburg.

The above accounts add, that after the last examination of Counselor Struensee, he was permitted the use of wine and tobacco.

Yesterday after his Majesty had left the House of Peers there was a Council, and it is said that some regiments will be immediately sent to Ireland.

They write from Dublin, that on the 20th ult. when the Lord Lieutenant was returning to the Castle from the House of Peers, his carriage was attacked by a mob, who insulted him in the grossest manner.

April 7. A letter from Brest says, that the French are at present very busy in transporting large vessels for ship building, from Corfica into the royal docks; and that the business of the navy goes on with extraordinary spirit.

Four French men of war, of 60 guns each, and three frigates, all with troops on board, have sailed from Toulon for the West-Indies, within these five weeks.

The amount of the public debts standing the 5th of January last (being old Christmas day) with the annual interest or other charges, payable for the same, is as follows, viz. principal debt 137,497,691. 31. 3d. farthing. The annual interest, &c. 4,526,392. 8s. 8d.

Extract of a letter from an officer in the Rockford, Capt. Hunt, dated Madras, September 27, 1792, by the Stag.

"I embrace the opportunity of informing you, that we arrived here the 17th instant, having had an agreeable, but rather a tedious passage of five months and sixteen days in the course of which we have in general enjoyed tolerable good health."

"We called at the Cape on the 6th of July, where we spent a fortnight very agreeably. There was at this place a French transport, with part of the regiment of Clave on board, destined for the island of Mauritius; and from her we learned, that a French army of Europeans, consisting of 7000 men, were there ready to strike some capital stroke in India."

"The India company are now at war with the King of Tanjour, and have raised an army of 40,000 men against him, with which they have begun the siege of his capital, which contains himself, his treasure, and his whole army. It will soon capitulate, as the place cannot long resist such a force."

Yesterday the House of Commons, in a committee of supply, voted 274,431. 4s. 7d. towards defraying the extra expenses of the land forces incurred to the 20th of Feb. 1793.

On Monday last a memorial was sent from this court to that of Versailles, relative to a point of importance, which is now in agitation between the two courts.

This day the House of Commons are to go into a committee of the whole house upon the consideration of a motion made on Monday last, to bring in a bill to encourage the subjects of foreign states to lend money upon security of freehold or leasehold estates in any of the colonies in the West-Indies, and to render effectual the recovery of the payment of such money.

It was Mr. Oliver that moved the House of Commons, to enquire into the case of the proprietors of the Antislavery private ship of war (printed copies of that case having been distributed.) He was well supported by Mr. Sawbridge and others—but in vain.—The nation's honour, the King's solemn promise, the hardships of the case, were all despised and treated with contempt by the treasury bench, and consequently by the house, who refused to enquire into that matter.—This motion reflects much honour on Mr. Oliver.

The preliminary articles of peace between Russia and Turkey are obstructed, by some hindrance thrown in the way by the court of Vienna.

The government of Ireland have at last gained over Lord Shannon to their interest. The terms are a reformation of offices, with an additional pension. His apostasy, however, is not yet announced, as he is tampering with his kinsman and colleague, Mr. Ponsonby, to bring him over on some such terms.

The Halifax Packet Captain Boulderson, who arrived on Saturday Evening last, in 56 Days from Falmouth, has brought us the following Advices, viz.

COPENHAGEN, March 28.

YESTERDAY a courier arrived from London to the English Ambassador, Mr. Keith, who has not been at court for some days past, and avoids appearing in public. He is often in conference with Count Osten, minister of foreign affairs.

LONDON, April 9.

A new treaty of commerce and alliance is on the point of being settled between the courts of France and Petersburg.

The following are given us a few instances only of the oppressions practised by the British government in Asia, since Lord Clive obtained, for the Hon. East India Company, the management of the revenues of Bengal.

Harris Chund, Steward to the Raja of Danish Pore, was scourged to death for not being able to pay master's taxations to the Honourable Company.

Three Jimindars, or Land Renters, in the Purgannah of Esapour, were scourged to death for the unpardonable crime of poverty.

In the Purgannah of Sit Shicab a poor man expired on the same day, for the same crime, under the lash of oppression.

The Gumstah, or Agent of the Renter of Mahmud Shany, was tied up by the hands to a beam, and dogs tied by the tails to his girdle, which dogs, horrid to relate, devoured him.

The deaths brought about by the punishment of the Breeches are very slow. This punishment, which is reckoned very ingenious, was, perhaps, invented by a fortunate breeches-maker, who became Governor of Bengal. The unlucky criminal, for there is no crime so great as poverty in our acquisitions abroad, has his hands tied up to a beam, and his leather breeches tightly bound about his waist. He is supplied with provisions; but the excrement, in the space of a few days brings on putrefaction and stench, which at last relieves, by death, the poor wretch.

April 11. A letter from Ipswich, dated April 6, concludes as follows: "Friday last the poorer people, driven to the greatest necessity, assembled in a body at Colchester, and seized some carcass carriages, a waggon load of wheat, and the like quantity of barley meal, on their way through that town for London. The meat they sold for three-pence half-penny a pound, wheat 4s. a bushel, and the barley meal greatly under the market price, and then gave the money arising from the sale, to the persons who had the care of the waggons. The soldiers quartered in this part, expect to be called out to quell the riot, and are holding themselves in readiness."

April 14. From Scotland we learn that several villages are in great necessity and distress, having neither cheese, butter, corn, nor flesh.

A letter from Warsaw, dated March 31, brought by yesterday's Holland mail, concludes thus:—"This moment advice is arrived, that Russia and the Porte have agreed to a cessation of arms."

Letters from Hamburg advise, that the Attorney-General Uhl Dahl had a conference with the Queen Matilda, at Kronenbourg, which lasted three hours, in which he informed her Majesty that she had only 14 days allowed her to prepare her defence.

Yesterday arrived a mail from New-York, brought by the Mercury packet-boat.

April 16. A letter from Poland, dated March 17, mentions, that a gang of wretches, calling themselves Confederates, had visited the cot of the miller, who in the fatal night of the 3d of November last afforded an Asylum to the King, and so cruelly treated the poor man that he was found almost expiring. They wanted, it seems to carry off the miller's son, to whom the King stood Godfather; but the mother escaped with the infant, and in revenge they set fire to the mill.

They write from Leghorn, that two large French vessels, which were bound to Constantinople, have been taken by a Russian man of war, and brought into that port.

Extract of a letter from the Hague, April 10.

"According to the last advices from Copenhagen, sentence of death will soon be pronounced against the Count de Struensee and de Brandt, and Counselor Struensee the Count's brother, Colonel Falkenhiel, and the Professor Berger. These advices add, that Col. Keith, the British minister, having very little hopes of an accommodation between the King and Queen, waited only for an answer to some dispatches to return to England."

The bill for regulating the importation and export of corn, was read the first time yesterday, and ordered to be printed. The bill for allowing the free importation of wheat, rice, and rye, was also read the first time; and both ordered for a second reading.

In the county of Suffolk, as well as Essex, the poor have committed many outrages in regard to the high price of the necessities of life. The magistrates in Ipswich have had all the locks taken off the muskets belonging to the militia, as the mob, it is said, intended to have seized upon them, in case they had been attacked by a military force; but as the legislature have taken measures to reduce the price of provisions, it is hoped these riotous proceedings will soon be at an end.

Extract of a letter from St. Edmund's, Bury, Ap. 14.

"This day 15 more rioters were brought under a strong guard of soldiers, and confined in our gaol, for destroying five mills, and rising several farmer's houses, which they entered with knives, &c. threatening their lives. What aggravates the offences of these people, the inhabitants of Bury had no longer ago than last week subscribed a large sum to purchase wheat, and sell it to the poor in meal at 11. per stone, till corn should be cheaper."

We hear that Col. Amherst, brother to Sir Jeffery Amherst, K. B. will have the first vacant regiment, and Sir Robert Murray Keith, K. B. will be appointed aid de camp to the King in his room.

April 18. Yesterday the House of Lords broke up at three o'clock, and adjourned till Thursday's evening.

A letter from Brussels, dated April 3, says, "The Princess of Strohberg who was married by proxy to the Chevalier de St. George, is the youngest daughter of the Prince de Hesse, by his Lady, a daughter of the late Thomas Bruce Earl of Aylbury, who settled in this country."

Notwithstanding France has long since ostensibly abandoned the family of the Pretender, it is asserted, that the late marriage of the Chevalier St. George is the fabrication of the French Court; and that the purposes of its originating there will show themselves in a few months, as soon as some matters can be previously settled with the court of Madrid.

The face of affairs in Denmark is greatly clearing up respecting the reigning Queen. Since the arrival of the last messenger on Thursday, their Majesties have, for the first time, spoke of the state of things at Copenhagen, before their principal people in waiting, and in such a manner, as if the clouds would be succeeded by a speedy sun shine, and a clear and serene sky.

It is not known whether any political business, between the Courts of London and Petersburg, relating to the war with the Porte, was the occasion of the frequent interviews at Rome between the Duke of Gloucester and Count Orlov, the Russian General; but it is certain their meetings were frequent, and often private, and that also their respective Secretaries were engaged by his Royal Highness and the General in long epistolary intercourse.

The generalty of the people at Copenhagen entertain, at this present time, so favourable an opinion of their Queen, that government is rather timorous about proceeding to measures that further impair her; and some principals concerned in the revolution begin to think their situation a little alarming. The King, it is said, is very much perplexed.

The hints thrown out in the news-papers relative to the disposition of a British fleet, as if it was intended to act offensively against Denmark, are only the random conjectures of superficial politicians, and such as cannot possibly be credited by any man of understanding.

April 20. On Friday some dispatches were received at St. James's, from the Electorate of Hanover, said to contain some important intelligence, relative to the operations of the Prussian and Imperial Armies.

The following are the powers who, in all probability will be involved in a war, should our Court take so rash a step as to send a fleet to the Baltic; France, and of course Spain and Naples, Prussia, Sweden, if not the Emperor and Empire, besides the principals.

The armament preparing against Denmark, is only intended to strengthen a negotiation now on foot with that Court. The Court at St. James's insist, that no sentence shall be passed on her Danish Majesty, the evidence against her being only presumptive and very inconclusive. The articles said to be proved have been actually sent to London; and have been submitted to the opinions of the first Lawyers, who, though consulted separately, have all declared, that the evidence brought is so far from bringing legal conviction, that it scarce amounts to a bare presumption of guilt, and they affirm, that they not only do not give credit to any of the facts at Law, but even find themselves obliged to disbelieve them at men.

They write from Paris, that the Duke of Fitz-James, an Officer in the French service, acted as proxy there for the Chevalier Edward Stuart, in his late marriage with the Princess of Strohberg; and that there were rejoicings for three whole days in that capital on the occasion. Does not this augur something boding against Great-Britain?

We are informed, that a Great Person, in imitation of the King of Sweden, intends to order 500000. to be laid out in buying corn, to be given to the poor families, who are ashamed to let their harts be known.

This coincidence of opinion has raised such scruples in the royal breast, that it is resolved not to permit the violence of a Danish faction to throw an unjust disgrace, by a sentence of guilt, upon a daughter of Great-Britain.—This resolution being taken, orders were immediately issued to prepare a squadron, and a courier was, in the mean time, dispatched to Sir Robert Keith, to insist upon a suspension of the sentence, to demand the person of the Queen, together with her fortune, and a settlement suitable to her dignity and family. The Dukes being in no condition to cope with this country, it is supposed that the demands will be complied with, without any coercive measures.

It is said, that a certain great personage in the north, was threatened with the torture to induce her to sign the constitution extorted from Struensee.

An intelligent correspondent informs us, that, after all, there is little ground for hope that the various accusations against a neighbouring Q. are not too well founded. In extenuation, however, of the royal delinquent, our considerent says, that it has been sacrificed to faction; who artfully insinuate unhappily. It is affirmed that in 10 days, acquainted with the case should appear in the House of Commons.

The cause of the late Majesty, who has been that under colour of fleet may appear in the of that unfortunate circumstance by the Danes have been strongly supported.

We are well assured about his house, and (which he wears in common) whether such a sum mark of all that human ship insinuated he poss.

faction; who artfully laid the snare into which youth and inexperience unhappily precipitated her.

It is affirmed that the Prussian minister has, within these few days, acquainted our ministry, that in case an English squadron should appear in the Baltic, a Prussian army will march into Hanover.

The cause of the above declaration is, that his Prussian Majesty, who has various designs on Denmark, apprehends, that under colour of a quarrel with Denmark, a British fleet may appear in the Port of Danzig, for the protection of that unfortunate city. Applications have certainly been made by the Danzigers to our ministry, which applications have been strongly supported by the Russian Ambassador.

We are well assured Lord Clive has a secret that runs about his house, and is a great favourite, whose necklace (which he wears in common) is valued at 5,000l.—Queer.
Whether such a sum so wantonly disposed of, carries the mark of all that humanity and fellow feeling, which his Lordship instilled he possessed in a late speech.

in testimony of the just sense they have of the services he has done this kingdom, by his active and spirited conduct in endeavouring to suppress the northern insurrections, and to bring the persons therein concerned to justice.

POET'S CORNER.

THE OTTOR
 O TOR, on the stage, in Rome's declining days,
 When Christian were the subject of their plays,
 For Perfection dropp'd her iron rod,
 And Man full war in impious war with God,
 An Actor flourish'd, of no vulgar Fame,
 Nature's Disciple, and Great his Name,
 A noble Object for his Skill he chose,
 A Martyr dying, slain in inflicting blows,
 Rejoice with Patience to Religion's Law,
 Yet braving Monarchs in his various Cause,
 Fill'd with the idea of the Sufferer's Fate,
 He felt the Zeal beyond the Reach of Art,
 While Look, and Voice, and Gesture all express'd
 A kindred Actor in the Player's Breast,
 Till as the Flame thro' all his bosom pass'd,
 He felt the Actor and committ'd the Mass,
 Proclaim'd the Faith, his Patrie Gods deified,
 And what he acted then he after died.

WILLIAM DEANE Coach-maker, INFORMS the public in general and his customers in particular, that he carries on his business as usual in Broad-street—where he makes all sorts of coaches, landaus, phaetons, carriages, chairs and chaises; likewise all sorts of harness and harness work, at also painting, gilding and japanning in the neatest and most elegant manner.—And as he finishes all carriages whatever in his own shop without applying to any other.—He is likewise determined to make them as good, sell them as cheap, and be as expeditious as there is a possibility.—And to convince the public of the truth of what he asserts, he will make any piece of work that is required equal to any imported from England, and will sell it at the prime cost of that imported, by which means those who are pleased to favour him with their custom will save the freight, insurance, and the expenses naturally attending in putting the carriages to rights after they arrive.—And as a further inducement, he will engage his work for a year after it is delivered, that is, if any part gives way or fails by fair usage, he will make it good at his own expense. These advantages cannot be obtained on carriages imported. He has now a considerable stock of the best of all materials fit for making carriages.—For the above reasons, he most humbly requests the encouragement of the public, which will be most gratefully acknowledged by him.

Said DEANE paints and repairs all manner of old work very reasonably, and has for sale just finished, a new phaeton, and four new chairs. 34 37
